Mirasol Aphelion commission

#main #character

Appearance

- Burn marks in the shape of flower
- Curly blond hair → Burned to orange
- Amber eyes with orange sun-flare patterns around the pupil, which brightens, enlarges, and flares up when crystal is slotted in.
    - Ahegao
- Fit
- Has good bobs :)
- Delinquent
- Wears oversized jacket
- Average height, ~170-176cm
- Short tempered
- Wields a smg
- 17-19 years old

Abilities

- Flexible, agile, experienced in street fights and boxing
- Generate and control fire/heat
- Summon the champion’s Javelin
    - Injects scorching flames into the victim’s body and explodes

Background

- Born into the most power noble family in Zinariya. She was bred to inherit a special gene that makes her the perfect sacrifice for the sun
- Nobles and children did all they could to please her to get close to her, to receive blessings after she's sacrificed. She doesn't know about the sacrificial ritual but she could tell they weren't genuine, which annoyed her a lot and is the source of her short temper.
    - She also felt that her father only used her as a tool to get favours or information from other families
- She made several genuine friends eventually, and became close to them. They all cared about each other a lot.
- One of her friends was performing poorly in physical exams. And after finding out what the house did to failed nobles, she panicked and forced her friend to train very hard so she could pass the test.
    - However, the test is partly genetics, impossible to train for.
- Someone told her about an experimental crystal locked away in the basement that could improve one's genetics.
- So, she gathered all her friends to go to the basement, which was miraculously unlocked, to fetch the crystal.
    - However, it cut Mirasol's finger and as her blood came into contact with the crystal fire blaze out, setting the whole basement aflame.
- It scorched her left eye and burned all her friends to crisp.
- She was sentenced to death for "breaking into the basement" and killing noble children with very high potentials, according to the accusations from a higher up of the house.
- Her father locked away parts of her memory to ease her pain and manipulated the house to exile Mirasol instead. Sending her to an underground mining facility. Where the story begins.